Missing 3 Year Old Boy Found In Nevada Hills

WOULD BE SLAYER DIES FROM BEATING

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

And don't tell us that this game of pee-wee golf doesn't get someone someplace somehow. Last night a certain young lady rushed into the office to tell us that she made one hole in one, eleven holes in par, ruined a pair of stockings and hit a lady in the eye with a ball.

* * * *

That's what we would call a perfect day, if you asks us. And if you don't ask us, why that's okay too.

* * * *

In spite of earnest pleas, the Scotch jokes continue in quantity and get worse in quality. The other night one was handed to us as follows, "We know of a Scotchman who was born in the United States to save transportation to this country."

* * * *

Such things like this make a man wonder if, after all, life is worthwhile.

* * * *

But if it isn't Scotch jokes it's wise cracks about razor blades. We'll still insist that that idea was fine.

* * * *

One just loves these people who threw cold water upon your pet schemes.

* * * *

Two months from now the twenty-seventh anniversary of the first airplane flight made by the Wright brothers will be observed. The Prince of Wales has been invited to the fete. This should prove a big drawing card.

* * * *

It is remarkable to think what wonders the airplane has accomplished since 1903.

* * * *

And in the next few years the airplanes will do more.

* * * *

Odd McIntyre spouted for a half hour in his column the other day about his dogs. Modesty forbids us to speak a word about our menagerie.

* * * *

Poor Odd must have gotten down to the point where we are now: that is, we have nothing to talk about but have to fill up space some way.

* * * *

With the election time coming around, and with a few hundred propositions on the ballot to be voted upon, supporters of this and that measure, and organizations against this and that are wasting good money by flooding newspaper offices with publicity against or for some measure.

* * * *

The American Legion football team will play at Antioch today. A number of local persons will attend the game —which by the way should be a fast and furious one.

* * * *

Wonder what these outdoor pee-wee golf courses are going to do during the rainy season.

* * * *

Which brings another bright idea: let's start a water polo course here. Take some of these vacant lots during a heavy storm—or tenth street and Macdonald avenue and you may swim, dive, or what have you.

Dry Regime Success Says Irving Fisher

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—UP—Prohibition is much more of a success than the public has been led to believe and seems assured of still greater success, Professor Irving Fisher, Yale political economist, said in a radio speech today under the auspices of the National Grange.

"Many have the impression that the death rate from alcoholism now exceeds the rate before prohibition," Fisher said. "The opposite is true.

"To the economic value of prohibition there can be no question. I have not been able to find a single economist who believes otherwise. The estimates vary from three billion dollars a year to ten billion a year.

POISON CLUE SCOUTED BY CORONER

Death had ended the revenge plot of George Garon, discharged laborer from a railroad erack gang who sought to slay his former foreman yesterday as he with other members of the crew was returning from his day's work.

Garon's death was said by Coroner Wilson to have resulted from a hemorrhage of the brain. It was at first believed that Garon might have taken a slow acting poison previous to the time he rushed from his hiding place at South Thirtieth street near Stege Junction and shot four times with a sawed off shot gun at Alex Pulas, his intended victim, before he was subdued with pick handles wielded by the section crew.

At the Hospital Richmond where he was taken following the fight Garon was treated for a deep laceration of the head and a broken left arm, suffered in the fight.

Whether the section men who weilded the pick handles in defense of their life would be technically charged with murder had not been learned last night.

Longeno Gonzales, one of the riders on the hand car, suffered the loss of his right hand when a volley of the shotgun went through it. At the Hospital Richmond the man's hand was amputated by Dr. W. E. Cunningham, assisted by Dr. L. S. John Healy Friday night.

Garon was living in a tank house on the Zeb Knott property on Thirteenth street, and had been brooding over his discharge from the section gang for some time. His revenge plot was apparently well meditated as police reported the finding of a sawed off shot gun and fashioned in such a manner that it could be used as a pistol. Along with the gun was a sack full of shells, and other equipment used while he lay in wait for his intended victim.

Funeral services for the dead man had not been set last night.

CHURCH GROUP PLANS MEETING

An interesting program has been arranged for the dinner meeting of the men's Brotherhood of the First Christian church Tuesday night.

It will be ladies' night for the group and Richmond firemen will present the program.

Capt. R. A. Wells will be in charge of the entertainment, and will be assisted by about ten firemen. There will be talks on fire prevention and life saving.

Warren Brown will preside over the meeting.

Fire Threatens San Pablo Area

Fire burning over approximately two acres of vacant land caused San Pablo fire department to appeal to Richmond fire fighters yesterday.

Chief Cooper sent engine and crew No. 3 to assist the San Pablo department and soon had the blaze under control.

An abandoned shed and several feet of fence was the entire damage done to by the blaze.

FEDERALS PLAN BLOCKADE OF CAPTURED CITY

BAHIA, Brazil, Oct. 18.—UP—A federal naval squadron was reported today to have established a blockade against Recife (Pernambuco), compelling all merchant ships to pass the port without stopping.

JURIZ DE FORA, Brazil, Oct. 18.—UP—Federal forces defeated a force of rebels in the town of Igrepinha, in a battle in which 180 were killed or wounded, the newspaper Diario de Provo reported today. The federals captured 25 insurgents.

REBELS ANNOUNCE SAO PAULO OFFENSIVE

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Oct. 18.—UP—A general offensive along the Sao Paulo frontier, which they said may prestage a decisive battle in the revolution, was announced today by rebel headquarters here.

The rebels, said to have been encouraged by recent accusations of strength, were optimistic of success. Defections of federal forces at various points were announced jubiliantly. The latest revolutionary claim was that the federal forces at Itub had joined the revolt.

Although the government claimed that federal troops were making steady progress in advances towards Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes state, the rebel communiques issued here contended that they were closing in slowly toward Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro.

Rebels Invade

In the interior, the rebels claimed to have invaded the borders of the state of Goyaz, which has remained loyal and repulsed revolutionary advances in the last few

'LITTLE JAKE' IS BURIED

GARDEN CITY, Kans., Oct. 18.—UP—They buried little Jake Fleagle here today. None were on the streets to see his funeral procession a few blocks off the residential section.

At 1:40 the procession was on it sway, only the hearse and three cars headed by Rev. John Rains, pastor of the Christian church, who offered a prayer and read a few Bible verses.

No word was said as to the identity of the deceased. Only relatives were present. None made any attempt to get into the funeral home.

A deputy sheriff took the deceased's two brothers to the funeral and to the cemetery where Jake was buried beside the fourth brother.

Immediately afterward the aged parents with the family of Walter Fleagle started for the farm house.

Band Leader Dies During Broadcast

BERLIN. Oct. 18. — Death abruptly ended a radio program broadcast from here last night when Julius Einoedshofer, widely known for his interpretations of martial music dropped dead just as he lifted his baton to continue the music of his orchestra. He had just tapped his baton, and was to start another part of the program when he collapsed.

CALCUTTA, India, Oct. 18.—UP—Five rent collectors, employed by land holders to collect rents from tenants who have been urged not to pay by the passive resistance campaign leaders, were shot dead in the Bhita Ghamparan, District of Bihan, region today by a mob. The mob had been protesting against the land holders.

HUGE DAMAGE SUIT FILED IN BUS CRASH

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Damages of $100,000 were asked here today in a suit filed by Kathryn Dee Calzavarra, one of a score of passengers injured the night of Oct. 4, when a Greyhound bus collided with a truck on the highway near Pinole.

Defendants named in the action were the Greyhound Lines, Alfred G. Pope, driver of the bus; Fred A. Beck, driver of the truck; Krekos Bros, owners of the truck.

Plaintiff alleged in her action that she suffered concussion of the brain, lacerations about the entire body, and injuries resulting in paralysis about the right arm and leg, partial blindness and disfigurement of the face and neck.

Two men were killed as a result of the crash, Ray Kimball and P. Sprachelin, the latter dying some time after the accident in a Martinez hospital. Inquest into the accident held by a coroners jury in Richmond this week failed to place responsibility for the accident.

SCHOOL BUS CRASH PROBE

PITTSBURG, Oct. 18.—Police were investigating the crash yesterday of a school bus loaded with approximately 50 children all under 10 years of age in which at least one girl and several other unidentified children were injured.

The school bus crashed head-on into the side of an ice wagon, injuring Estranca Luna, 7, and several others whose names were not obtained in the confusion that followed. It was said the bus skidded approximately 30 feet before striking the ice truck, which led authorities to believe it was overloaded.

The injured girl was treated at Pittsburg hospital for internal injuries and held for further observation.

Dennis Pettas, of this city driver of the bus said the ice wagon did not stop at a boulevard stop sign. Gus Felt was driving the truck, police reported. Neither of the men were held by police, but were being questioned regarding the accident.

Do-X May Start U. S. Flight November 3

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—A report was current today that the DO-X, the world's largest flying boat, would start on its projected flight to the United States from Lisbon, November 3. The report could not be verified from any local source.

The DO-X, constructed at the Dornier plant near Freireichshafen, Germany, is equipped with recently-installed Curtiss Conqueror engines, made in America. On a test flight, the giant flying boat carried over 150 passengers. It is planned to fly to the United States by way of the Azores and Bermuda.

TOT FOUND NEAR DEATH FROM HUNGER

TONOPAH, Oct. 18.—Search for a three year old boy missing in the mountain lion infested region near here for the past two days had ended today with the discovery of Lawrence Sullivan in Jefferson canyon north of here almost dead from starvation and exposure.

Nearly 1000 men had engaged in the hunt for the missing youth after he had strayed away from his uncle John L. Sullivan's automobile parked in Jefferson canyon about 25 miles north of here.

Had the searchers not come upon the boy when they did, it was said he would have expired.

Big Hunt

Included in the hunt were Boy Scouts, police and Alco, a prize German police dog and his owner who were flown from the Alameda airport by Keith Scott, Reno automobi[illegible] dealer, at the [illegible] Tonopah [illegible]. Alco became famous for his work during the hunt for Edward Hickman.

Scott left the Alameda airport shortly after 3 o'clock this morning with the dog and its owner, and it was shortly after their arrival in Reno that word was flashed of the child's discovery.

Clues Found

Trail of the young wanderer was picked up yesterday when tiny steps brought searchers across the canyon and finally to a place where the lad apparently had slept during one of the two nights he was lost in the wilds. In the brush was a small shoe apparently torn away by a foot-sore hiker. A little further on they found shreds of cloth on the sharp undergrowth.

Soon bloodhounds set up a sound which indicated to hunters that the lad had been found. There in the hollow of a small patch the boy had laid down for what he may have thought was the last time. He was immediately rushed to the city for treatment. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sullivan of Reno.

Four Held In Raid On Still

MARTINEZ, Oct. 18.—Four men were in the county jail today following a raid conducted by Chief Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey when 500 gallons of alcohol with a large quantity of mash and sugar were alleged to have been seized.

The still was located on the Frank Roderiguez ranch near Knightsen, police reported.

Held in the county jail are, William Clark, 31 who police said was found operating the still in a barn at the time of the raid; Charles Brown, 21, who was sleeping in the farm house and James Fugolian, 27 with Fred Anders, who arrived at the still as the officers were conducting the raid.

Included among the products collected at the still by the raiding officers was 35,000 gallons of mash and 13 0sacks of sugar.

Simon, N. Y. Scion Divorced In Reno

RENO, Nev., Oct. 18.—Arthur J. Simon, son of Franklin Simon, head of a fashionable New York department store, was divorced here yesterday by Mrs. Anna Hoeffler Simon on charges of mental cruelty.

Mrs. Simon testified her husband married her knowing she was partly deaf, but later became irritable and unsympathetic over her affliction. Mrs. Simon was awarded a substantial property settlement out of court.

MANY DEATHS LAID TO STORMS

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—UP—Wintry weather whistled out of the northwest across the central and eastern sections of the country tonight, as the weather bureau predicted a cold Sunday and flurries of snow over a wide area.

Blizzards howling out of the Arctic northland were the source of winds that drove over the Great Lakes region after leaving great snow drifts in Manitabo and Saskatchewan provinces.

This first concentrated cold spell of the season spread rapidly towards the south, and struck in the direction of the Atlantic seaagainst the capital, Sao Salvador (Bahia) and to Rio de Janeiro without meeting resistance. Sao Salvador has remained loyal to the government and the city, which was normal early today, was making extensive defensive arrangements against the rebels.

The rebel secretary of interior in Parahyba state, in the north, telegraphed headquarters here that the rebel forces had crossed the river to Sao Francisco and imprisoned Dandir de Pereira, member of a group which has been waging bitter battle against the state officials and all of his followers.

LIONS MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Ladies night has been slated by the Richmond Lions club to be held Friday night at the Hotel Carquinez.

This statement was made in the Lions club Bulletin, issued yesterday by A. C. Faris, secretary of the club.

As the result of the celebration, there will be no regular meeting of the club Tuesday.

Harry Tyler, of the Sacramento Junior college will be the speaker of the evening, it was stated.

Five Machines In Collisions

A hit-run driver struck the car of C. W. Reynolds, 711 Maple street last night as he was making a U-turn at Fifteenth and Macdonald avenue and before he could stop his car had collided with a truck driven by Van K. Willard, 1815 Barrett avenue, police reported. eNither the car nor the truck were badly damaged.

Slight damage was done to two machines in a colission on Macdonald avenue between Third and Fourth streets yesterday afternoon, police reported. Manuel Morris, Richmond, struck a car driven by Hilding Sandburg, Oakland as he was pulling away from the curb police reports revealed.

Town Threatened By Oil Stove Explosion

CENTRALIA, Ill., Oct. 18.—UP—Explosion of an oil stove in a restaurant today started a fire which damaged or destroyed several store buildings, injured two firemen, caused damage of $500,000, and for a time threatened to spread throughout the business district. The blaze was stopped when it reached a fireproof bank building.

WINTER BALL SEASON TO OPEN

The postponed opening of the Oakland Winter baseball league will be held on Richmond and Oakland diamonds today.

The Richmond Odd Fellows will go into action against the Rola club of Oakland on the San Pablo diamond this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Peacock will start in the box for the Linkers, with Gualdoni behind the plate.

The Richmond Y. M. I. nine will tangle with the Oakland Firemen today at First street at 2:30 o'clock. Johnny Babich will twirl for the locals, with Johnson receiving.

A fast, competitive season is promised in this year's Oakland Winter league, as its membership includes four of the fastest nines in this section of the state.

The Y. M. I. lineup will include: John Babich, pitcher; Ivy Johnson, catcher; Korte, 1b; Joe Prolo, 2b; George Lucas, ss; Snyder, 3b; "Lefty" Eglith, lf; Elmer Ferrari, cf; and Buck Lasse, rf.

The Pullman Service Station nine will meet the Richmond Modern Woodmen of America at Albany at 2:30. Martin will chuck for the Woodmen.

Rodeo will cross bats with the Rich Pie company nine of Oakland this afternoon at Rodeo.

IRISH DEFEAT CARNEGIE TECH

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 18.—UP Three rapid-fire touchdowns which came at unexpected moments enabled Notre Dame to continue its undefeated march with a 21 to 6 victory over Carnegie Tech's powerful eleven before a crowd of 30,000 here today.

Bitterly fought in sub-zero weather, Notre Dame won the game by its superior handling of the ball, completing two passes for touchdowns and recovering a fumble which resulted in its other touchdown.

After a scoreless first period, Notre Dame broke the deadlock early in the second period.

Carideo, all-American quarterback last season, crossed up the closely knit Carnegie defense by calling for a pass. Schwartz took the ball and threw a rifle-like pass to Edwin Kosby, left end, who caught the ball on the goal line and was tackled just as he fell over the line for the first touchdown of the game. Carideo kicked goal.

On the first play Murray Armentrout, Carnegie substitute halfback fumbled a bad pass from center, and Joe Kurth, Notre Dame right tackle, recovered on Carnegie's three yard line.

It took only one play for Schwartz to smash through center for Notre Dame's second score. Carideo again kicked goal.

The second half was barely under way when Howard Eyth, shifty Carnegie halfback, broke off tackle and raced 70 yards for his teams' only touchdown. Not a Notre Dame player laid his hands on him as he galloped the long journey. It was the first and only time during the game that the Tartans invaded Notre Dame territory.

With the score, 14-6 as Samp'e, Carnegie guard, missed the try for point, Notre Dame scored its third touchdown in the third period.

Harvard Beaten By Army, 6 To 0

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—UP—Army's stonewall defense held Harvard helpless today, as the powerful Cadet eleven hammered out a hard earned 6 to 0 victory before a capacity crowd of nearly 60,000 fans.

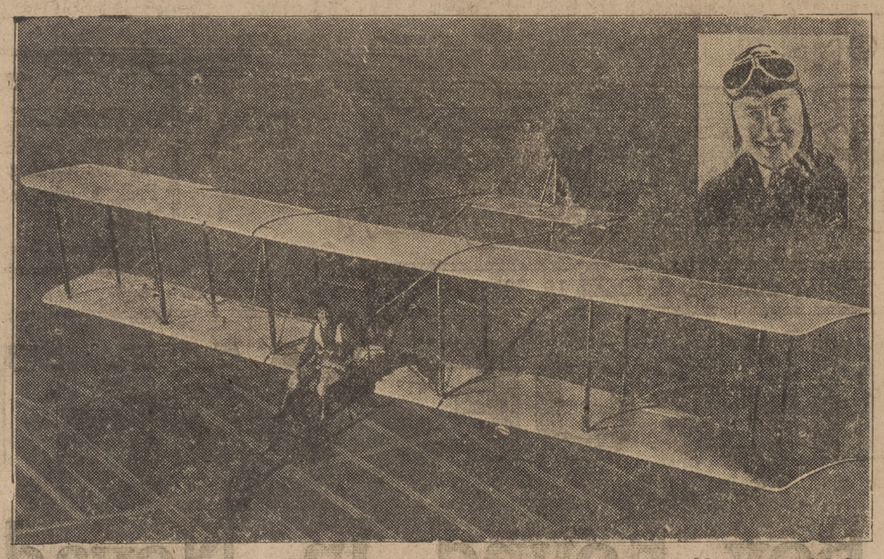
The Crimson also showed surprising defensive strength, however, and but for a poor punt shortly after the game began, the contest might have resulted in a scoreless tie.

Harvard displayed considerable driving power at times, making eight first downs to Army's six; but at strategic points the Crimson attack wilted in the face of an almost impregnable West Point line and Harvard never was able to punch over the lone touchdown which with extra point might have spelled victory.

Tractor Damages Golf Course

KALAMAZOO—Vandals who ran a tractor over some of the green and tees of the Arcadia Brook golf course, belonging to Charles B. Hays, former mayor, and mowed down fence posts, as well as smashing up a decorative rock fountain, are being sought by police and sheriff's deputies. Damage is estimated at $1500.

Richfield Pushes Pusher



Here is an aerial view of Al Wilson, famous stunt flier, in the 20-year-old 1910 model Curtiss pusher biplane which, powered with Richfield gasoline and lubricated with Richlube motor oil and rocker-arm grease, made a successful flight recently from Chicago to Los Angeles in the elapsed time of 48 hours and 45 minutes. Insert is a closeup of Al Wilson whose stunts with the rickety old plane have gained him added fame in the aeronautical world.

Golden Bears Defeated By Olympic Club

BERKELEY, Oct. 18.—Unable to show his real ability while a member of the California varsity for two years, Schlicting this afternoon showed his self against the Blue and Gold by scoring two touchdowns against the Bears to win for the Olympic club by a 13 to 7 score.

Keeping his promise to save his first string men for the test next Saturday "Nibs" Price allowed his second string to handle the assignment for the afternoon and came off the field on the short end of the score. It was not until the beginning of the fourth quarter that "Rusty" Gill was able to punch over the lone tally from the six inch line.

Schlicting's first tally came in the second quarter when he raced around end on a wide circle from the Bear five yard line. The second score came in the third period on a right end run and cut back into the center of the field to run 70 yards to the goal.

For almost two years Schlicting sat on the California bench hardly getting a motion from Price to enter the fray. It was generally known that he was good, but why he was never given the opportunity to display his ability as fully as he might, always did remain a mystery to the followers of the game. Yesterday he proved beyond a doubt that he is a real football player.

The toss was won by the Club which elected to receive. Medanich booted to Fredericks on the 13-yard line who returned the ball to the Club's own 25 yard line. The first play netted nine yards with Fredericks carrying the ball around end. A second play failed to gain and the Club booted on the third down to Ray East who returned the ball nine yards to about the 29 yard line. A couple of line plays by California failed to gain and Garrity kicked out of bounds on the Club's 27-yard line.

Two more plays by the San Franciscans and the third down was a punt to East who returned the ball to the Bear's 41-yard line. Garrity tried a long pass to East, but missed. Then East reeled off 13yards, after which Castro fumbled but recovered for a five yard loss.

Garrity's 34 yard punt was returned by Fredericks to his own 32 yard stripe.

Six yards were taken by Davis on a guard play. A ten yard loss and an attempted pass forced the Club to punt. The Bears lost the ball for illegal use of hands. A six yard gain, an incompleted pass, and a stopped play and the Club again booted. The ball sailed over the goal line and California had the ball on its own 20 yard marker.

Two line plays gained seven yards and Garrity punted to Fredericks who set the ball down on the Club's 40-yard stripe. The next play was a fumble recovered by Medanich. This gave the ball to California on the Club's 32 yard line. Four plays and the Red Shirts again had the ball on their own 29 yard line. The last California play was an incompleted pass from Garrity to De Resta.

Schlicting went in for Pomeroy and shortly before the half ended, skirted end for the first touchdown.

The remainder of the game was a see-saw affair with each team kicking when unable to make downs, until Schlicting ran for his second touchdown from his own 30 yard line. Fighting its way up the field the Golden Bear reserves went over for one tally to keep itself away from a shut-out.

TENNIS TEAM WILL PLAY TODAY

Te Richmond Tennis association net squad will tangle with the invading Bucna Vista netmen of Oakland this morning on the Richmond City Hall courts. The tourney will start at nine o'clock.

Several of Richmond's outstanding racquet wielders will be unable to play with the local team today. Irwin Sutton, third ranking player, and Jack Murdock, fifth ranking player, will be playing in the Golden Gate park tournament in San Francisco, while Carl Petersen, will be unable to play today.

However, Richmond will still have a strong squad of veterans left to battle the Oakland club, and the locals should be able to carry themselves capably in todays tourney. Richmond has already defeated Bushrod club this season.

The netment who will see action against the Bella Vista club today are: Phil Carlin, number one ranking player, Jimmy Hurley, number two; Darrow Sutton, three; Lemes, four; Bertel Petersen, five; Adrian Newman, sixth; Clarence Garibotti, seven.

The local double teams will consist of Hurley and Carlin, Darrow Sutton and Bertel Petersen, and Adrian Newman and Clarence Garibotti.

A. S. Remell will preside over todays tournament.

Tennis Stars To Take Part In S. F. Meet

Four Richmond tennis stars will participate in mixed doubles competition in the Golden Gate park tournament at San Francisco today.

Sylvia Seawright and Jack Murdock will compose one doubles team from Richmond, while Irwin Sutton and Helen Dunning will also participate in the tourney.

The Golden Gate tournament is a handicap affair. Both local teams will probably have a handicap of 15-3-6.

All four of the local entrants in the trans-bay tourney have distinguished themselves notably in local, county, eastbay, state and Pacific coast competition. Miss Seawright and Miss Dunning recently won the Pacific Coast junior women's doubles championship at Berkeley. With such records behind them, the local entrants should go far in today's meet in San Francisco.

CARDINALS BEAT OREGON STATE 13 TO 7

PALO ALTO, Oct. 18.—UP—A brilliant attack in the last three minutes of the first half gave Stanford a 13 to 7 victory over Oregon State here today.

Thrilling 21,000 spectators, the Cardinals opened up as the second quarter drew near a close and scored both of their touchdowns in rapid succession.

Moffatt, Stanford left half, on a tricky reverse pass, went around Oregon State left end for 13 yards to score the first touchdown.

A moment later Guido Caglieri, Cardinal right half, intercepted a pass on Oregon State's 37 yard line and Rothert, fullback, tossed a pass to Moffatt that went 32 yards for another touchdown.

Rothert, who converted after the first touchdown, failed the second time.

The northerners came back strong to make a touchdown in the third period ond with less than one minute to play in the fourth quarter had the ball on Stanford's ten yard line.

Miss Collett Wins Woman's Golf Title

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—UP—Glenna Collett of New York successfully defended her national golf title today at the Los Angeles Country Club by defeating Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, 6 and 5 in the finals of the 34th annual amateur championship tournament.

The champion played practically unbeatable golf, driving straight and putting with deadly accuracy. Miss Van Wie's game was staunch but she was no match for Miss Collett.

The end of the 18-hole morning round found Miss Colett five up. Her total of 76 strokes was the best score of the tournament.

Miss Collett, in becoming nation-amateur champion for the fourth time, turned in a card showing the impressive array of one eagle, 10 birdies and 13 pars. She was over par by a stroke on seven holes.

Miss Van Wie had six birdies, 16 pars and was over par on nine holes.

The champion won 11 holes, Miss Van Wie captured five and they halved on 15 greens.

Yale Wallops Brown, 21 To 0

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—UP—Powerful line play won Yale a 21 to 0 victory over Brown today.

The Eli forwards, performing more creditably than in any game thus far this season, opened wide holes in the Brown defense and Albie Booth who started a game for the first time this fall, shot loose for several of his famous hop skip-and-jump runs.

Yale scored three touchdowns, in the first, second and fourth quarters, and Booth booted a field goal in the final session.

Ed Rotan, 200-pound Yale substitute guard, furnished the thrill of the game when he snatched Gurll's fumble on Brown's 45-yard line and lumbered across the Brown goal line surrounded by interferers.

Yale's center, Fred Loeser, contributed the outstanding line play on the field, repeatedly breaking up the Brown attack before it could get going.

Court Solves Tough Problem

OGDENSBURG, N. Y.—When the late Mrs. Charlotte Veance bequeathed $400 to her nephew, Hiram Flanagan, she created a problem. There were two Hiram Flanagans and both were her nephews. After hearing evidence submitted, Judge Reynolds decided in favor of Hiram Flanagan of Brockville as against his namesake in Cornwall.

LEGION ELEVEN WILL MEET ANTIOCH

A large automobile caravan will leave Richmond at 11 o'clock this morning, enroute for Antioch, where the Richmond American Legion football team will meet the Antioch gridders at 2:30 this afternoon.

According to Dan Bradley, manager of the team, the game will be played rain or shine, and members of the football squad are asked to be at the Elks club at 11 o'clock this morning to arrange for transportation.

Today's game will be the local eleven's fourth contest, the Legionnaires defeating the Acorn Athletic club, 6 to 0; the City of Paris team of San Francisco, 23 to 0, and tying the Ashby Athletic club, 6 to 6.

Coach Claude Samples is proud of the manner in which the local team has improved, and is anticipating a close game today.

The Antioch club is as yet undefeated this season, and has beaten some of the best teams in northern California, most auspicious of these wins being the one over the strong Sonora eleven last week, by a 64 to 0 score.

Samp'es however is not worrying, and seems to be optimistic over today's battle, which, if won by the local squad, will put Richmond in the foreground of the state American Legion competition.

A starting lineup issued by Coach Samples will see the following players in action: Cooper and Pitts, ends; Bonneville and Adcock, tackles; Peters and Barton, guards Myers, center; Youngs, quarter, Clarke and MacAllister, halves and Freeman, full.

Officers Of Carquinez Golf Club Elected

With a large increase reported in Carquinez Golf club membership Frank Mero was elected president of the association to succeed Dr. U. S. Abbott at a meeting last week.

Other officers named at the same meeting were: A. P. Hill, vice president; J. E. Durard, treasurer; T. A. Duggan, secretary.

Election to the board of directors resulted in C. F. Bierbauer and W. E. Peterson succeeding Dr. U. S Abbott and T. H. DeLap.

E. C. Sawyer, recently named manager of the club has increased the membership considerably, it was said.

Christian Science Lesson Subject

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon today in all churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of the mother church, the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the lesson-sermon will include the following from the Bible: "Then answered Jesus and said unti them Verily, verily, I say unto you, the son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the father do; for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the son likewise. I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge; and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me" (John 5:19, 30).

The lesson-sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When the human element in him struggled with the divine, our great teacher said: 'Not my will, but thine, be done!'—that is, let not the flesh, but the Spirit, be represented in me. This is the new understanding of spiritual love. It gives all for Christ, or truth. It blesses its enemies, heals the sick, casts out error, raises the dead from trespass and sins, and preaches the gospel to the poor, the meek in heart" (p. 33).

CROOKS FALL OUT IN FILM AT FOX

Frequently it has been asserted that a capable cast can make a poor play interesting and that a mediocre cast often spoils a good play. Consider, then, a great story, splendidly dramatized and acted by a superb cast, every member of which has, at one time or another, been a stage or screen star.

This combination will be enjoyed at the Fox-California Theater today where "Double Cross Roads" Fox Movietone all talking emotional drama will hold the screen.

The cast is headed by Robert Ames, well known on both stage and screen, added acclaim having been his for his splendid support of Gloria Swanson in "The Trespasser," currently a popular picture. Lila Lee, beautiful and talented screen actress, portrays the leading feminine role, while the other featured characters are acted by Montagu Love, Ned Sparks and George MacFarlane. The cast is completed by Tom Jackson, Charlotte Walker, Edythe Chapman, William V. Mong and Thomas Jefferson.

The story, which was adapted for the screen by George Brooks from the popular novel of William Lipman, "Yonder Grow the Daisies," deals with the adventures of a youthful crook, who, on leaving prison, decides to travel straight. Going into the country to look for honest work, he not only finds employment, but romance, too. Alfred Werker directed the picture, and George Middleton, associate producer, was in general charge of the production.

Also on the program is a Laurel and Hardy comedy, entitled "Blotto."

Revolutionary Drum Found

INDIANAPOLIS.—A drum, the deep tones of which served to rally American fighting forces in several battles of the Revolutionary War, rests in the attic of Joseph W. Church, surrounded by dust.

The instrument, with its hand made tacks and its shell of solid maple, is intact but has not been used in any war since the great victory over England a century and a half ago.

Its known history is brief, but visitors to the Church home are aroused to speculation over the story concerning it.

Church said the drum was carried in the Revolution by Timothy Church, a brother of John Church who was a great grandfather of the present family.

The two men fought in the battle of Quebec and were taken prisoners when the Americans were routed. Timothy died in prison but gave the drum to his brother who later gave it to his son Isaac who in turn passed it to his son, George Church.

"My father moved to Marion county in 1854 and the drum's been mine since I was a year old," Joseph Church explained.

LOCAL LIBRARY HAS NEW BOOKS ON DISPLAY

There are stories of romantic love, adventure and mystery, as well as of more prosaic situations in life, among the twenty-four volumes of fiction which go into circulation at the Richmond library this week. Dorothy Canfield's new novel "Deepining Stream" is among them, and "The Trader's Wife" by Janet Mackenzie.

Some years ago Carveth Wells wrote an engrossing book on the Malay jungle in which he told of tree-climbing fish, singing earthworms, and monkeys that cleaned their teeth after meals. In 1928 Wells was with an expedition in equatorial Africa and he tells about it in his latest book which, strangely enough, he calls "In Coldest Africa." His unusual travel luck held for this trip and with wit and never-failing sense of humor he tells a delightful tale.

A remarkable biography is that of Charlie Hedlund which the author, L. S. Palen, has called "Water and Gold". It is the life story of Hedlund, a Swedish-American, who began his career as a chimneysweep, became a deep-sea sailor, and then a gold-hunter in Africa, as told in his own words to Palen. The book is in some ways reminiscent of "Trader Horn" but with more adventure and dramatic action, and will rank as a notable contribution to the literature of action and adventure. After so romantic a life Hedlund is now a master mechanic in a little New Jersey town.

Dr. Karl Menninger author of "The Human Mind" has edited with N. A. Crawford a book on "The Healthy-minded Child." Feeling that common senes is not sufficient for the bringing up of children they have collected in this book the opinions of ten specialists in mental therapy, as to how the findings of modern science may be applied to the bringing of children and to the developing of Healthy-mindedness. The authors state that the book "is for average parents, with average education, average opportunity, and the average number of problems in bringing up their children." Teacher also will find the book of great interest and help in their work.

Ever now and then we see some new fruit or vegetable in the market or some new tree or vine in the parks or a friends garden but we do not stop to realize the interesting adventures that have gone into the bringing of these foreign plants to our tables and gardens. And it is just these adventures that Dr. Fairchild tells in "Exploring for Plants." As a member of the Office of Foreign Plant Introduction of the department of Agriculture, Dr. Fairchild and his wife have traveled into many far corners of the world and seen many interesting things.

State Officer Aided Grocer Norris' Fund

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 18.—UP—The state treasurer of Nebraska, W. M. Stebbins, revealed today that he had contributed to the senatorial campaign fund of the grocer, George W. Morris, who filed as a candidate against Senator C. W. Norris in the recent republican primary. Stebbins was himself a candidate against Senator Norris and was defeated.

Stebbins acknowledged that he had donated the $500 bond which aided in financing the grocer's short-lived campaign and which figured prominently in the recent investigation conducted by Senator Gerald P. Nye into the motives behind the grocer's candidacy. Stebbins said he also had contributed $350 to the campaign fund of the grocer, whose name was ruled out.

New Woman's Air Mark Believed Set

ROOSEVELT FIELD, New York, Oct. 18.—UP—Laura Ingalls, attempting a transcontinental airplane speed record for women, arrived here at 12:11 p. m. today. It was believed she had broken the record recently established by Mrs. Keith Miller.

Miss Ingalls' actual flying time was computed at 24 hours and 35 minutes. She had flown the last 530 miles from Columbus, Ohio, in four hours and 30 minutes, flying part of the time through a snowstorm over the Allegheny mountains.

War On Gophers Slaughters Many

SEA LEGS FOR SEA WOLF AT FOX HERE

"Orientator" was the name given to a queer piece of appartus used by the army air service during the war in testing the fitness of prospective flyers by whirling them around and about as they sat strapped in the seat of the machine, and noting their reactions on being released.

Alfred Santell, Fox Movietone director put one of these devices to practical use in preparing to make the first of all talkie version of Jack London's famous tale "The Sea Wolf." With a five week cruise on the Pacific scheduled for the marine sequences, Santell could not afford to have sea-sickness interrupt the filming. As a consequence, he borrowed an orientator from the army and put each member of the cast and technical staff through a strenuous course of spinning and barrel rolling, thus eliminating at the start several players and helpers whose susceptibility to mal-de-mer would have seriously interfered with picture making.

Milton Sills has the title role in the production, with Jane Keith as the mysterious girl passenger and Raymond Hackett as the shanghaied youngster. The picture opens at the Fox-California Theater tomorrow.

CHRYSLER CAR IS MACHINE OF FUTURE

Declaring that women are now responsible for 90 percent of American-made car purchases and are directly responsible for the artistry in the modern motor car, Miss Helen Dryden, called America's highest paid woman artist, predicted in a recent syndicated interview that all cars of the future will have an all-steel body and be built on the order of the present racing car.

"Men may change motors, but women will change car construction," Miss Dryden is reported as saying. "The car of 1940 will be built on the order of our racing cars. It will be as graceful, strong and simple as the modern speedboat and airplane. It will have an all-steel body, the finest body for safety. It will combine beauty with utility.

"Women," Miss Dryden further stated in her interview, "are now responsible for 90 percent of American-made car purchases. Wives have the last word when husbands buy the car and usually there is a woman's influence behind the automobile bought by bachelors. The vogue for artistic car accessories is due to women's demand for them. As women dictate car construction more, they will become better drivers."

Miss Dryden more than a year ago was acclaimed "the highest paid woman artist in America." Her magazine covers brought her a fortune. At the present time she is devoting her talents at a salary said to be $100,000 a year to designing automobiles.

Miss Dryden's statement and predictions were particularly pleasing to Chrysler officials who point out that most of the improvements in construction, design and artistry, predicted by her for the car of the future, have already been included in the new line of Chrysler eights recently introduced to the public, according to Harry Curry, local Chrysler dealer.

These cars, the first eights ever to bear the Chrysler name, are long and low with sweeping, graceful and racy lines. They have all-steel bodies, a V-shape radiator of beauty and utility, modeled after those used on racing cars, and incorporate the improvements and conveniences directly traced to women's influence in car construction.

Grand Jury To Probe Theater Bomb Plot

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 18.—UP—Charges against five members of the local Motion Picture Operators' Union, accused of a bombing plot against Sacramento theatres, will be laid before the grand jury Monday night, District Attorney McAllister announced today.

All but two of the accused men were out on bail today, and John R. Connelly, attorney for the union, refused to issue any statement until the entire group had been released.

Joe Apathy, 30, will be charged with placing dynamite in a building, while the others will be accused of conspiracy to dynamite a building and commit arson, McAllister said.

Envoy Attends Japan World Series

TOKYO, Oct. 18.—W. Cameron Forbes new United States ambassador to Japan left tonight for a one week tour of Hokkiado island, a place where few foreigners of imminence have visited. The afternoon was spent by the ambassador in a visit to the opening game of Japan's world series.

LOST MINER IS FOUND DEAD

SEWARD, Alaska, Oct. 18.—UP—Discovery of the body of Tom Kenney, picturesque prospector, on a bar in Mud river, Mt. McKinley National Park, climaxed a 10-year search Kenney had made to find and prospect a "lost mine" that he believed existed within the shadow of the continent's greatest mountain.

One of the more prominent of the prospectors who spent their lives seeking the elusive pot of gold, Kenney was confident that he would make his big stake within the boundary of the park. He did not know exactly where the "wealthy pay" was located, but he spent 10 years trying to find it. He usually had to go alone, and always returned to his Anchorage home empty-handed, but none the less confident that the next search would be his last; that one more expedition into the wilds would be rewarded.

It was his last, but he was not rewarded as he had hoped to be. He died of starvation and exhaustion.

Kenney left Anchorage July 19 with Tom Black, popular negro prospector. Two weeks later Black, half starved, his clothing in tatters, staggered to a ranger's station and reported that he and Kenney had become separated. After due time, a search was started for Kenney, but no trace of him was found until recently, when his body was discovered on a bank in Mud river.

The region through which he had traversed is extremely wild, with very little game to support the lone wanderer. Kenney's provisions had been used, he had injured his right foot and was forced to drag himself in search of help or food. Berries and porcupines kept him alive for several weeks. Rangers traced his route by the remains of campfires. They saw where he had dropped various parts of his pack, attempting to lighten the load. His body was finally found by a group headed by Chief Ranger Fritz Nyberg.

Kenney always kept a diary of his wanderings, but the story of his last search for the big stake will probably never be known. His pockets were not examined before he was buried, and it was believed that the diary went with him to his interment ground.

His death ended the 10-year-old hunt, but laid the foundation for another tale of privation and suffering along the trail in the northland.

German Banker Visits Stimson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—On a lecture tour of the United States, Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank visited Secretary Stimson at the State Department to pay his respects. Dr. Schacht declined to discuss the present political situation in Germany and would not talk of the German financial position.

CHEVROLET SIX LAUDED ON JOURNEY

"Its a wonderful trip across the country, and there is nothing to worry about in making a transcontinental tour."

That's the way four boys described their tour from Pelham, New York to the Pacific Coast. They drove a 1930 Chevrolet touring car and had no trouble with it anywhere. In fact, their only trouble amounted to two punctures on the entire run. They picked up two large spikes which penetrated the tires.

A. J. Fregans, instructor in Memorial High school in Pelham, New York, accompanied the four boys on their tour which included a westward journey by way of Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, through the Bad Lands of South Dakota, to Yellowstone National park, to Vancouver, B. C.

The boys are Lockwood Barr, William Barr, George Storm, J. Barton Elliott and Fregans. They camped all the way and carried all their material with them.

They visited Alaska by boat from Vancouver and trod the path of the gold seekers of 1898 and visited Skagway, Dawson and the Yukon district; returned to Vancouver and resumed their trip in their Chevrolet.

"We left Pelham, New York, June 24 and made good time across the country," states Fregans. The roads throughout the east are in fine shape. We came west from Chicago through the Bad Lands of South Dakota then to Wyoming and made a trip through Yellowstone National park. From the Yellowstone we drove through the Northwest to Seattle and then to Vancouver, B. C.

"We took a steamer from Vancouver and visited many points of interest in Alaska. On our return to Vancouver, we took the car out of storage and drove to Rainier National park, then to Portland and on down the coast to San Francisco and Oakland, and then to Los Angeles.

"Our trip back home will include a visit to the Grand Canyon National park and back by the southern route.

"On the way back home we intend to visit the Painted Desert, the Rainbow Bridge in Utah and then go east by way of Kansas City, the famous caves in Kentucky and thence to Virginia and Washington, D. C.

"We camped all the way and enjoyed ourselves to the utmost. It was a wonderful experience for the boys and they learned the geography of the country by actually seeing it.

"The Chevrolet behaved perfectly. We made high speed runs when we were in a hurry and drove slowly when we wanted to and all had a fine time. The car carried a big trunk on the back, a running board box on the side and a Husky dog that we acquired in Alaska."

Connell and Shumate, Twenty-third street and Nevin avenue, are the local dealers for the Chevrolet line of cars.

Pact Fliers Death Ruled Accidental

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 18.—UP—An army board of inquiry today made formal finding that Lieutenant William W. Caldwell met death in an airplane accident.

Lieutenant Caldwell was killed late Wednesday when his plane crashed in a blizzard near Lookout, Wyo., while he was on the transcontinental flight to carry the Japanese ratification of the London naval treaty from Victoria, B. C. to New York.

Lieutenant John Mulvay of Rockwell Field, Calif., was here to accompany the body of Lieutenant Caldwell to his home in Oakland.

Economics Of Japan Held Same

SEATTLE, Oct. 18.—That Japanese ecomic conditions are on a par with condition in other parts of the world at the present time was the opinion given on his arrival here by Edwin Neville, acting United States ambassador to Japan previous to the appointment of Cameron Forbes. Neville today arrived here aboard the President Taft.

Former 'Buddy' Visits H. Stearns

Thirty-two years ago H. M. Stearns of this city was a comrad of C. L. Marsh, Cleveland, Ohio when this country was engaged in war with Spain.

Yesterday, Marsh with his wife visited Stearns and his wife at the latter's home, 801 Twenty-third avenue. Marsh, who is now a retired police sergeant, with Mrs. Stearns is touring California by automobile and expect to spend some time here before they continue their journey east.

Husband Of Star Enters Politics

BATON ROUGE, La. Oct. 18.—The race for the governorship of Louisiana was entered today by Harry P. Williams, millionaire lumberman. Williams is the husband of Marguerite Clark, former moving picture actress. Williams is seeking to fill the governor's chair reecntly exacuated by Huey P. Long when he was nominated for the United States senate by the Democratic party.

Buck At N. J. With New Junior Record

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 18.—UP—Robert Buck established a new junior transcontinental record today when he arrived at Newark airport at 1:43 p. m.

The New Jersey boy had an elapsed time from Los Angeles of 23 hours and 47 minutes as compared with the former record of 27 hours and 40 minutes, established by Edward Snyder. Buck flew here from Columbus, Ohio, in three hours and 43 minutes.

L. A. Scoured For Missing N. Y. Judge

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Police and deputy sheriffs were ordered today to keep a close look-out for Joseph Force Crater, missing New York City justice.

Miss Elizabeth Osgood of Balboa, while riding on an interurban car, saw a man she believed resembled the New York jurist but detectives later interviewed the conductor of the car and were told that the man pointed out was a regular commuter.

COUNTY TAX BILLS MAILED

Approximately 60,000 county tax bill are in the mails today following their mailing from Martinez yesterday by County Tax Collector Martin W. Joost's staff.

Contra Costa county is unique in the matter of handling its tax bills in that it does not require the payers to sign personally for them. The service given property holders of receiving their tax bills in the mails is considered by Joost as the best way to assure the maximum collections, and is a service which is appreciated by the tax payers as well, he declares.

Total taxes will aggregate approximately $3,686,032.55, it is estimated.

Joseph F. Marshall of Oakley holds the distinction of being the first Contra Costa county tax payer to pay his tax bill for the 1930-31 year, when he personally handed his check to Joost for the payment.

FABLES FOR THE FAIR

By MARGUERITE MOORS MARSHALL

The Girl Who Swallowed Too Much

ONCE upon a time there was a girl who believed all she heard
About what to eat and why and how—also, what NOT to eat—
If she would remain slender, youthful, fresh-skinned, healthy, lovel
As with most young women, her figure was her chief concern.

MARGUERITE MOORS MARSHALL

She had been told all about the terrible fattenin qualities
Of Sweets and Starches,
So she never ate white bread, not even lovely, puffy little rolls,
Or delicious Swedish and Norwegian breads with raisins;
She never ate potatoes—boiled, baked, mashed, fried, au gratin—
She fled from sweet potatoes, especially the luscious "Southern style" kind;
She aojured pastry of every sort—
Not for her hot, flaky mince pies,
Delicately frosted lemon meringue pies,
Juicy blueberry and blackberry pies,
Meltingly tender squash pies,
Sweet and savory hot apple pies;
She swore off French pastry for so long
That she actually forgot how much better it always looks than it tastes.
And therefore suffered tortures of tantalization
Every time she saw a tray of it borne about a restaurant;
Of course, she felt that she had no right to eat cake—
Luscious little frosted cakes, thick chocolate layer-cake,
Rich fruit cake, or even delicate sponge cake;
Candy was not for her—and she adored chocolate fudge—
In fact every kind of chocolate candy and all the sugar bonbons, with nuts in the center
Made her suffer agonies of frustration when she said, "No, thank you."
Likewise, she had been warned against Fats—
So she swore off bacon, roast pork, butter,
Drank her coffee without cream, even poured off the top of the jar
When she permitted herself to absorb a glass of milk.
Cream sauces and mayonnaise were on her taboo list—
Sometimes she reflected wistfully that it seemed to contain everything
Which she ESPECIALLY liked to eat!
However, she did not merely content herself with abstaining from forbidden fruit—
She swallowed whole all the various reducing diets of which she read or heard—
Swallowed the descriptions of them, and then the actual diets.
She tried the milk diet—drank glass after glass
And ate nothing except oranges.
She adopted the far-famed Hollywood diet—
With its terrific preponderance of acid fruit, the profits on which are as Californian as Hollywood itself.
Then she tried dry bran toast and orange juice for breakfast—
Next to nothing for lunch and the famous pineapple-chop combination for dinner.
She fell for the uncooked food theory
And ate large bunches of celery, many heads of lettuce,
Tomatoes and cucumbers and romaine,
All the fruits of the earth, in their natural state—
She even munched raw carrots and turnips, with all the assiduity of a rabbit.
She absorbed untold amounts of roughage—
She went back to potatoes, after reading how healthful it was to chew their skins.
She subsisted for many a meal on cottage cheese—
Having been told what a perfect food that was.
She became an expert on vitamins, minerals, carbohydrates,
And the cleverest little calory-counter in captivity.
What were the results?
Well, she didn't die—
But neither did she become notably healthy, slender, beautiful—
She simply could not keep a cook—
All the servants whom she hired to prepare meals grew weary and disgusted with her food faddishness.
And when she turned up her nose at their most appetizing culinary triumphs
They naturally felt as insulted
As a Tammany leader asked to sign a waiver of immunity.
Waiters looked at her with ill-concealed contempt and amazement
When she ordered, in restaurants and hotels, the weird dietetic combinations
To which, for the moment, she was devoting herself.
All the men she knew laughed at her,
And asked her if she were ever going to eat real food again.
And at least two might-have-been-proposals never were uttered
Because the gentlemen in question took thought on what they should eat and what they should drink
If they married a girl who had gone diet-crazy.
Then, one day, not long ago, the young woman happened to pick up The Evening World
And read therein the report of a speech by Dr. Robert Hutchison of London,
Who declared to the British Medical Association that the diet faddist
Is perhaps the commonest and most malignant crank.
"The scientific truth about all this diet business," he said,
"Can be summed up as follows:
"Eat moderately, taking ordinary mixed diet,
"And don't worry about anything else—
"To take no thought for what you shall eat or drink is wiser
"Than to be always fussing over it.
"Likes and dislikes, however, should be listened to:
"They are nature's indication of what probably agrees or disagrees.
"Leave raw vegetables, except salads, to herbivorous animals
"And let the calories look after themselves."
Not long after, she read a similar explosion
From Dr. William Gerry Morgan, president of the American Medical Association,
Who called the food faddist one of the curses of modern civilization,
And said that no single food contains all the necessary qualities of the well-balanced meal.
She even discovered the recent remarks of Henry Stude of Chicago,
Who complained that "we used to tell how good and nutritious food was—
"Now we count the calories and vitamins;
"We have turned from the joy of eating to the pride of fasting"—
Help the farmer by helping to consume the food he raises, added Mr. Stude.
The girl wasn't so much worried about the farmer,
But she was worried about her increasing lack of "pep"—
And she was tired of dietetic experimentation and self-denial—
And, to express her state of mind and body in one word, she was HUNGRY!
So she decided to stop swallowing food faddist propaganda
And instead to swallow more food—meat and vegetables and dessert, in ordinarily sensible amounts and combinations—
The last we heard she was living happy ever after.
And it was ever so much easier for other people to LIVE WITH her!

Care in the Use Of Gasoline

A WOMAN who was warned to be more cautious in the use of gasoline, laughingly retorted, "Oh, I have done this hundreds of times and nothing happened." The well-meaning friend wisely remarked, "Yes, but there always is a first time."

It has been said, "A quart of gasoline will cause an automobile to move three miles. A similar amount used in household cleaning may cause three auto fire trucks and an ambulance to run a similar distance."

So the cautious person will take precautions with gasoline in the home. Keep gasoline in a safety can. When using it to clean garments you are taking a big chance if you do so in a room where a spark or flame may cause an explosion. Rubbing too vigorously while cleansing a garment may also cause an explosion.

If you smell gasoline be cautious in locating the cause. One man used a match to discover what caused the gasoline odor in a cellar closet. The children had opened the can of gasoline and the contents leaked over the floor. The result was disastrous; the man recovered but he strongly admonishes all whom he knows, "Never take a chance with gasoline nor any other inflammable fluid."

Candle Board For Cakes

AT a home dinner in one of the few remaining old houses in which a home atmosphere is retained, there was one feature of the meal that greatly impressed the three guests who were present and who were surprised to learn that, instead of being a new fad, it was an old one—a family custom for generations. When the salad course was finished and the table cleared for dessert, the maid brought in a snowy looking cake on a round mahogany board. Surrounding the cake were two rows of candles, in two different sizes and colors, and all lighted. This, it seems, was a candle board, and in this case, a prized heirloom. The board with its burden was deposited in front of the hostess. She extinguished the flames with old silver snuffers, then proceeded to cut the cake and the maid to pass it.

Then everyone wanted to know more about the candle board. To make one, a board—white pine takes the stain if you want it mahogany-toned—about a foot and a half in diameter, or, of course, any size you please. That will carry three dozen candles. Then you paint the edge or gild or silver it. Any carpenter will cut the board for you to required measurements. The candles are set into candle cups, and these are made of sheet lead. Cut the lead in the shape of four little petals and drive a long tack into the center of each and thereby tack firmly to the board, equi-distant from each other all the way around in two rows. When the little petal cups are in, turn them into cups and there they are ready to hold the candles. The candle cups must not, of course, be allowed to take up too much of the center space as the effect is better if the cake has quite a space between it and the first candle row. It isn't necessarily left bare, however, this space.

One young woman at the dinner suggested that an ordinary tin funnel might be stained to look "old" and do service as a snuffer, and another thought that a brass rim or even a hoop of wood laid close around the board would be a help in keeping the flower decorations in place.

Try and Do It — By Haenigsen

Tales That Tables Tell

By Alma Zaiss

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930.

VACATIONS and easy going days are over; the world's business is once more in full swing... and the breakfast table becomes of increasing importance as it prepares the household for a good start each day. Now it abandons the more frivolous appointments which gave it a piquant interest on summer mornings, and puts on a very substantial air, befitting the heartier season and its responsibilities.

An admirable fall table is illustrated in the above setting—a table reflecting color and richness, satisfaction and comfort...all qualities which bring us the keenest enjoyment when we settle down to serious things.

A cloth of heavy cream colored linen hemstitched in block design makes a dignified beginning for the picture. The new breakfast set shows an old fashioned scenic pattern in rose-red tones on an ivory ground, as quaint as the old English porcelains that set themselves on ancestral tables. Rose-tinted goblets echo the coloring of the china, and pewter is much in evidence.

Realizing the host's relish for his morning cup (or cups) of fragrant coffee, the pewter pot is particularly upstanding, and of a size that will hold plenty for the two who will soon be served with it. Coffee should never be boiled in a pewter pot, of course (nor in any pot, we add hastily). The better pewter pieces are lined with aluminum or some other alloy that gives the correct cooking surface. But coffee is best when brewed by the drip method in the usual way and then, when ready for serving, poured piping hot into the pewter pot which in its turn has been filled with boiling water to make it piping hot. We like that word "piping"; perhaps because as it is said we are sniffing the spicy cold air of a North Maine morning...and breakfast is still a half hour away!

Thinking of our cottage coffee pot in the presence of this beautiful specimen with its sleek sugar and creamer nearby, we wonder why all women (ourselves included) are not more alert to the really decorative part these implements play. The importance of their contents on the menu is so well understood. What good breakfast is begun without them; what dinner ended otherwise? But here consideration often ceases.

We polish our glasses and silver until they sparkle; our china and linen are designed in the latest mode. But confess, now...how many of us have the most up-to-date, the most distinctive coffee service it is possible for us to procure? More often than not the equipment is a commercial looking "perc" which, through hard wark and continuous service, has lost much of its youthful charm.

There is no more graceful gesture of the hostess than that made when pouring coffee or tea and bestowing them upon the family and friends. Then do they not deserve the best possible containers? Dozens of unique designs are to be found not only in silver, aluminum and pewter, but also in glass, hand-beaten copper, porcelain, smart Italian and Spanish pottery as well as the new domestic wares.

Let us drip or percolate our coffee, then, as prescribed by the dietitians. But, if we are not over-fond of the size, shape and bearing of our utilitarian coffee pot...let us bring the beverage to the table in a vessel that delights the esthetic appetite. Things taste so much better when they look attractive.

How to Oil the Floor

ALTHOUGH some experts assert a wood floor should never be oiled, it is frequently done, possibly because it is an economical finish for a kitchen or porch floor.

A good drying oil such as boiled linseed should be used but before applying it make sure the floor is absolutely free from dust or dirt. If the oil is warmed it will penetrate more quickly. A mixture of equal parts of oil and turpentine will penetrate readily and is especially good for pine floors.

Apply oil with a brush, lengthwise of the grain of the wood, and rub in with a soft cloth. Use only as much oil as the floor will absorb and be sure to wipe off any excess with a dry cloth. A second coat may be applied if desired.

Making a Rag Rug

THERE are several ways of making rag rugs, and if by any chance you have never made a rag rug you should certainly try at least one of them. You will find it an absorbing pastime and the rug is likely to be such a success that you will be proud of it forever after. Aside from all this, rug making affords an ideal way of disposing of cast-off garments.

A good quality of wool, or cotton and wool, is used; flannel is the best of all materials, but anything so it has body to it will do. It is cut into strips from a quarter to a half inch in width and about a yard in length, and these strips should be wound into balls, each color separately for convenience unless your rug is to be a "hit or miss" pattern, which means the colors are run in promiscuously.

Old woolen underwear or cotton and wool mixed may be utilized by resorting to the dye pot, and in these days of many prepared dyes this is no forbidding process. Silk stockings too may be drawn into service, but they should not be used with other materials but exclusively, which is to say, in a rug made entirely of silk stockings.

Frames are to be had ready made and they are adjustable. If you should choose to make your own frame it can be done with very little trouble. See that the lengthwise sticks project each a full half yard beyond the crosswise ones, in which case you can dispense with standard to use two chair backs instead.

To the frame attach a piece of cotton to completely cover it, or, wind with cotton or flannel cut about four inches wide. For the rug you will use burlap forty inches wide unless you prefer to cut up a burlap bag which will answer the purpose perfectly. Sew the burlap to the frame stretching it taut all around and using twine for the sewing. First, turn the edge of the rug-to-be in a two-inch hem all around. Before attaching to the frame you will have drawn the design if you are to do that yourself. Choose a simple and, preferably, a conventionalized pattern and apply it by stencil.

On strong brown paper draw your design, cut it out and then brush with shellac on both sides to make it stiff enough for use. When thoroughly dry, use bluing and stencil your burlap, not forgetting to do a border. Make the border at least three inches from the edge as it is not easy to work too near the frame.

Now with a large hook of bone, steel or wood, take one of the strips in the left hand and hold underneath the burlap in the left corner nearest you. Hold the hook in the right hand over the burlap, dive it in and draw up a loop. Dive the hook in again and bring up another loop, and there you are! Your rug is under way. Keep your strips straight and smooth. Keep your hook in a nearly horizontal position. Press the holes of the burlap open each time as you force the hook in so that the material, that is the strip, does not catch and twist. When the whole surface is covered with the loops, press up from underneath and snip with scissors the loops from the outside.

A beginner might be wise to do a hit-or-miss pattern. The rugs are most attractive and, as there is no pattern to follow and no necessity to select colors, they are quickly done.

Select the Fuel By Testing

SINCE the World War we have learned the use of different kinds of coal and many householders, through experiment, have succeeded in finding just the coal to fit their furnace and consequently are getting satisfactory results, but no definite rule can be given concerning the selection of fuel. This will depend largely upon your furnace and the attention given to the fire.

Economy and satisfaction are the points to be considered, and to attain these the best fuel is that which will require the least attention in burning. The only way to decide this is by tests.

Each individual householder must study fuels as to their burning in his particular heater. Buy two or three kinds at one time and experiment with these separately and in combination. Consider their burning qualities, whether they catch fire rapidly, how much ash they leave, whether the smaller size filters through the grate unburned, the formation of clinkers that are so hard to remove, and whether it forms those crusts that interfere with the draft.

One householder will have excellent results from combining egg and pea coal, another will use nothing but chestnut, some get best results from mixing egg and buckwheat and still others think nothing can equal a mixture of egg, pea and buckwheat; many will tell you that egg coal alone gives more heat. One man claims nothing can equal just pea coal for a firm fire bed that gives a maximum of heat. These have all proved successful in the respective homes.

While a good grade of hard coal is generally considered preferable for furnace heating, many good housekeepers put their seal of approval absolutely on coke. So deciding the fuel question is only a matter of actual trial.

Renovating Hints

To dry-clean curtains shake them well in the open air and brush them with a stiff brush, then place them on the floor on a clean sheet and sprinkle lightly with Fuller's earth or powdered magnesium. Let them remain thus until next day, then shake out and hang again in open air.

The Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Exterior Decoration for Red Heads

IF BLONDE beauty requires a delicate hand for its make-up operation, the titian type of blonde, or red head, needs it more so. Just picture an over-rouged lady with auburn tresses and you will see immediately what we mean.

FRANCES OLIVIER

Speaking of rouge, if this department owned the marble cheeks and flaming hair of the true titian beauty, then nary a bit of rouge would we use. Only powder a tone deeper than the skin tone and clear, light red lipstick, and a touch of black eye crayon and mascara.

Titian ladies with freckles constitute the exception to the make-up rule aforementioned. Titian ladies with freckles need rouge. They need it to kill the dull little-brown-wren look which freckles en masse produce. Also there is need here for a deeper tint of powder—much deeper than is required by the freckleless face. As you know, of course, the deeper the powder tone the more skin flaws it hides. A rule, by the way, which applies to all skins of whatever complexion.

There is another type of red head who requires rouge to put her at her best—the type with gold red rather than auburn hair, brown eyes and a pink tone to her skin. But, oh pray do not let it be more than the most delicate blush of rouge—a nice clear light red tone used most sparingly. As to the lipsticking of this lovely type, that must be soft and delicate, too, rather than brilliant. A luscious deep rose tone ought to be perfect.

Now we come to the most difficult variety of red head—difficult to make up, we mean—the one with a dash of flame to her skin as well as to her hair. Never, never should she rouge, and her lipsticking must be the subtlest thing imaginable. Let it match her lips and let it be used as the merest accent. Her powder can work miracles for her—if she will choose just the right shade. We suggest a rich, rich cream tone, darker than the skin, but with little or no pink in its composition.

Nearly all varieties of the titian type of beauty have eyebrows and lashes too light to give the necessary touch of emphasis to the eyes and face. Brilliant white skinned red heads are superb when their eyes have the setting of glistening black brows and lashes and the merest hint of blue eye shadow.

The brown-eyed girl with a russet crowning glory is most charming when she finishes her self-portrait with a few deft strokes of brown mascara and brown eyebrow crayon. Eye shadow is not for her, as a rule. Occasionally perhaps, if it is evening and she has worked herself into an exotic mood—wardrobe and all.

THE PERILS OF RADIO ANNOUNCERS

DO radio announcers have their perils? We'll say they do! Little do people realize the traps and ensnarements announcers in our larger cities are subjected to. All the following facts are siphoned out of real life. Listen to this actual happening and you get a good idea.

B. Giffney Thromble was one of those clear-eyed young Americans who couldn't help but make good. From a train crier in the subway he had worked up to be a radio announcer on the roof.

At first Giffney announced radio programs on silent nights. Then, as the applause cards sifted in, he was promoted to announcer of the regular annoyances. He was the only one in the studio who could say that Tschaikowsky's Funeral March would be next. And how the vast, unseen radio audience loved him!

* * *

It was a very cold night indeed when Giffney's face wasn't up against the microphone. He also provided local color for the radio. When the Eskimo Quartet came on, he rang the sleigh bells. When they played the radio bridge game, Giffney was the dummy and received many compliments.

His witty, cheery greeting—"Ah, there, folks!"—brought joy and sunshine throughout the land. He could have been elected president if preserves, jellies and valentines were ballots.

Silly girls and vain women invited him to lunch with them, but Giffney didn't know who would pay the check, so he always refused. Then one night a siren-like little blond folded herself in a bass viol case and was smuggled into the studio. When the Goldstein Artificial Leg Company's musical hour was being broadcast, Adeline (for that was her name) insinuated herself into Giffney's company.

"Oh, what big, beautiful eyes you have," she said admiringly.

"Think so?" said Giffney, who had been told of their beauty before. "Yes," countered Adeline, "and what a strong, handsome mouth you have, too." Giffney's resistance was breaking down. Then she praised his manly, straightforward ears and he was madly in love.

"Tell me, Adeline, dear," he murmured, "what can I do to make you happy?" But just then the Goldstein Artificial Leg entertainers finished and Giffney had to go to the microphone and announce Ten Nights in a Barroom, condensed to fifteen minutes. Whe he looked around, she was gone.

* * *

He looked in the bass viol case, inside the clarinet and between the strings of the harp. But Adeline had vanished. His heart felt sad. He went over the city with a fine tooth comb. Then he tried it with a hair brush. Finally he went all over town with a bottle of hair grease, but to no avail. The girl he loved was lost.

It affected Giffney's work. His larynx lacked its usual snap. There was sadness in his once cheery "Ah, there, folks!" At last applause cards began coming in. They praised him with such phrases as "Take that mutt off the air," "Give us an announcer with some pep" and other constructive criticism. So finally they gave Giffney the air. Without a microphone.

* * *

He sought work at radio stations beginning with W and then went out West to try the K's. It was no use. He was despondent. In San Francisco he tried to drown himself in the Golden Gate, but his coat caught on one of the pickets. At the hospital they resuscitated him. Half unconscious, his first words were, "I want Adeline, sweet Adeline." The interne thought he was badly stewed as they brought him to the Golden Gate again, and this time they let him drown.

Two weeks later, Adeline married Patrick Hoffstein, the man of her choice. She never stated why she left Giffney so hastily that night—a disappearance that led to his tragic end. But the coroner of San Francisco, a wise and knowing man, wrote down halitosis as the cause of Giffney's death.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

YULE PARTY FOR VETERANS IS PLANNED

Complete organization of the Livermore Veterans' Hospital Christmas committee for 1930 which for the past six years has provided through the generosity of patriotic, fraternal, civic, welfare organizations, war nurses and families of the veterans, is announced by Walter H. Eliassen, general chairman. Eliassen is past commander of Oakland Post No. 5, American Legion.

The officers of the committee include: Emmet J. McKay, first vice-chairman; Mrs. A. J. Mathebat, second vice-chairman; J. W. Grathwaite, treasurer, Mrs. Lulu R. Webster, secretary.

Committees are as follows: budget and finance, Charles Leonard Smith; purchasing; Mrs. Herman Wente; wrapping and distribution: Mrs. J. W. Garthwaite; transportation: George Katzenberg; grab bag: Mrs. M. F. Murray; speakers: Elmer Zollner; publicity: B. S. Sanders, hospital representatives: Dr. Frank B. Brewer, medical officer in charge: Miss Irma Anderson, director Red Cross service; William P. Manuel, chairman patients' welfare committee.

Regional representatives on the Livermore Veterans' Hospital Christmas committee are as follows: Contra Costa County—Charles W. W. St. John; Alameda—Raymond T. Kahn; Albany—Judge George W. Hickman; Berkeley—Col. E. J. Hardy; Emeryville—Claude D. Palmer; Hayward—H. A. Bradford; Livermore—Mrs. N. D. Dutcher Jr.; Oakland—Dr. John F. Slavich; Piedmont—Major W S. Overton; San Leandro—Mrs. James Dalziel.

Each year the problem of meeting the need of more gifts to the veterans as well as to their families has grown. A survey has disclosed that 40 per cent of the families of the non-compensated war veterans have families.

Due to the present depression in business and its consequent increase in unemployment, the need is greater this year than ever before.

The 1930 budget has been set close to $4,000.

Only organizations are asked to contribute—veteran, civic, fraternal, service, patriotic—though, while not solicited, many individual subscriptions are volunteered.

Headquarters of the committee are 1307 Harrison street Oakland.

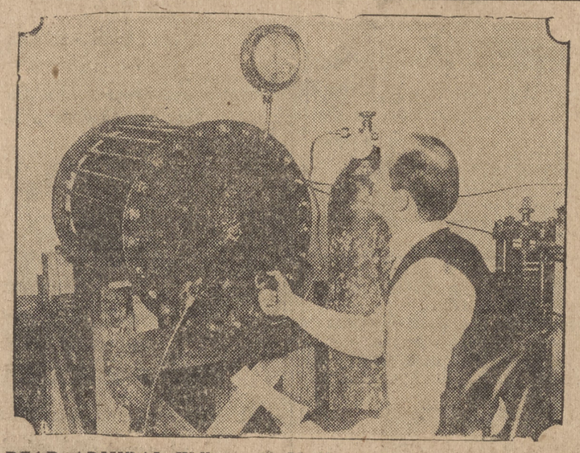
Helium Tests



REAR ADMIRAL William A. Moffett, chief of aeronautics, urged that America's helium supply be made available to British and German dirigible operators, since congress enacted a statute several years ago, as a national defense measure, forbidding the export of helium gas, safest for dirigible use, instead of hydrogen, as in the ill-fated R-101. L. A. BUILDING BLAST HELD ACCIDENT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—UP—An explosion in the 11-story garment Capitol building here Friday which caused damage estimated at $1,500,000 and injured 50 persons probably was caused by an accumulation of gas, investigators said today.

Police and other authorities had entertained theories that T. N. T. or some similar high explosive caused the blast. It was decided, however, that the explosion of such material would have ripped the concrete foundations of the building differently than what occurred.

At the same time Captain William Hynes of the Intelligence unit of the police department said he had satisfied himself that the explosion was not caused by radicals. He was unable, however, to say what caused it.

The blast damaged buildings in an eight-block radius of the garment Capitol building.

BREUNING WINS CONFIDENCE BALLOT

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—UP—The government of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, fighting desperately for its life in a turbulent, bellicose Reichstag, won an important victory tonight when it succeeded in side-tracking bills aimed at defaulting on Germany's reparations obligations.

By a vote of 323 to 236, the Reichstag passed a motion of the government parties shelving in the foreign relations committee bills variously demanding revision of the Young plan, cessation of reparations payments and revision of the Versailles treaty.

The government emerged victorious from a vicious attack of its opponents and assured itself of at least temporary life by defeating 13 motions of misconfidence, by a single vote of 318 to 236. It was accomplished by voting to shelve all motions and pass to the next items on the agenda.

The nationalists, fascists, communists and agrarians voted against the government and all other parties for it. The opposition jeered and the government parties shouted "hochs" when the vote was announced.

The government was expected to seek adjournment of the Reichstag for six weeks to allow the cabinet to proceed with its difficult task of economic reconstruction without being hampered by parliamentary obstruction.

U. S. Prohi Chief Recalls Dry Canvass Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—UP—A questionnaire sent 3000 newspaper editors in an effort to obtain their opinion of national prohibition was recalled late today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, who said he feared the purpose of the inquiry might be misunderstood.

In sending the questionnaire this week, the prohibition bureau said it was planned to embody the results of the newspaper poll in a forthcoming pamphlet.

Woodcock, however, today vetoed the plan after a conference at the Justice department.

Letters are being sent each of the newspaper editors who received the questionnaire directing them to disregard it. Woodcock said this action was taken entirely on his own initiative after he had considered the matter further.

"I think we made a mistake in sending out this questionnaire," he said. "I am afraid that its purpose may be misunderstood and the easiest way out, therefore, is to recall it.

This was the first time a federal agency had attempted to poll sentiment on prohibition, and widespread curiosity was aroused as to its purpose. It came at a time when the president's law enforcement commission was deep in its effort to frame a report on prohibition though the commission denied the poll was being taken for its use.

Revival Of Big Top Show Seen

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—A veteran showman has been searching for stage talent in Indianapolis with which he hopes to revive one of the most famous "big top" shows of past years. Four pudgy faced poodles of the city dog pound will help Henry V. Gentry, retired showman and owner of the fomus Gentry Dog and Pony show, to again take his place as the king of dog trainers.

NEW TREATY WITH FRANCE SEEN

PARIS, Oct. 18.—UP—Ambassador Walter E. Edge, mindful of complaints that American commerce is restricted and hindered in France, plans to discuss with Washington the possibility of an all-embracing trade convention or a series of treaties with France.

A recent incident arising from the antiquated consular treaty of 1853, which governs the commercial affairs between France and the United States, occurred a short time before the ambassador sailed for New York.

One Arrested

Leon Bogen, New York, was arrested and imprisoned at Rouen on his arrival from the United States. French authorities claimed that Bogen, who was naturalized American in 1921, had failed to do his compulsory military service which fell due while he still was a French citizen living in the United States. The American embassy investigated and found it could not protest because the consular conviction of 1853 does not cover such cases and also because it was discovered the French police believed Bogen was wanted in New York for the alleged theft of some clothing.

This is but one example of many over a period of years where American boys, born in France, of French-born American naturalized citizens, have been imprisoned for failure to do their military service, but nevertheless the hands of American officials are tied because of the lack of an adequate commercial and private agreement between the two countries.

Many Held

Private American citizens, living in France, constantly complain to the embassy they are not treated the same as French citizens in the leasing of apartments and commercial property.

The difficulties of American film distributors constantly have been to the forefront since the war and at present their business is being conducted on a makeshift, temporary agreement which expires in October, 1931. The Americans have bowed to regular tariff increases but their protests center around special regulations such as quotas or vexing hinderances which prevent them from adequately serving their French market.

Trade Hit

American automobile trade with France has suffered considerably the past two years because of legislation directed against American exporters. American interests recently accepted a heavy increase in tariff rates, but several companies now are protesting a ruling which requires American automobile agents to pay the French luxury tax before the machines are sold to French users.

Edge is accompanied by Williamson S. Howell, economic secretary of the embassy, who will assist the ambassador in his Washington discussions. Before his return to France it is believed Edge will outline plans for future important negotiations with France to replace the useless consular convention concluded while France and the United States had little commercial relations of a complicated nature.

Federals Plan Blockade Of Captured City

weeks. They said rebel troops captured the city of Formosa, on the Goyaz-Minaz Geraes border and the town of Christalian, in Goyaz.

In the northern region, revolutionary leaders said Gen. Juarez Tavora continued his march southward through the state of Bahia board.

The prisoners were sent to Princeza, "where they will be held responsible for their crimes," the message said.

The message also reported that Col. Agildo Barata had led revolutionary troops into the northern state of Sergipe, and was advancing triumphantly to all parts of the state.

In the south the rebels continued their concentrations in an effort to launch an attack against Sao Paulo—the most vital state in the nation. Rebel troops also were concentrated on the coast of Santa Catharina state in the south, for the long awaited attack on federals occupying the city of Florianapolis.

Rebels captured the federal garrison at Sao Jaoa del Rei, taking 400 officers and soldiers prisoner, another rebel statement said.

OSAKA, Japan.—The government Railways have started construction of a new station and train crews quarters at Minatomachi, near Namba. The building, of reinforced concerete and steel, will cost about $1,200,000 and will be ready by the end of 1932.

Eastern U. S. In Storm Grip

Late crops were certain to be brought to an earlier ripening, agricultural experts said. The only menace of the cold weather lay in the possibility that an excessive drop might result in freezing of soy beans and corn that still contained a small amount of moisture.

Charitable activities in metropolitan centers throughout the central west were stimulated as a result of the onslaught of cold weather, and hurried attempts were made to provide shelter for those who previously had been able to sleep in parks and other places in the open.

Forecasters said cold weather was expected to continue into next week throughout the north central states, where flurries of snow were reported general over Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

As the storm moved eastward, it caused considerable damage at Buffalo, N. Y., with snow, sleet and high winds which uprooted trees and tore down telephone lines. Elsewhere in the state, as much as five inches of snow was reported to have fallen.

Deaths attributed to the cold included those of five men who perished when their automobile became stalled in a snow drift near Regina, Canada, and of another motorist, whose machine was overturned by a drift.

A mild famine at Saskatoon, Canada, where traffic was brought to a standstill by snow drifts, was feared as citizens struggled with inadequate equipment to clear away the snow.

In the north central United States temperatures were not as low as have been recorded in some years and the snowfall was not the earliest on record, but mid-October storms of such intensity have been rare, and the suffering was great.

At Holland, Mich., the first snow of the year fell. Coast guardsmen there reported heavy seas on Lake Michigan, but did not believe any ships were in danger.

STAMP PRIZE FOR LOCAL MAN

Word was received here last night that A. O. Clark, of this city had been awarded first prize for his exhibit of French stamps in the Oakland Philatelic Society's third annual show now in progress at the Hotel Oakland, Oakland.

Approximately $1,000,000 stamps are now on display there. Included among the group are Pony Express stamps for which the owner is said to have paid as high as $1300 for one stamp. W. R. Parker, Oroville also has another stamp which he values at $1110.

Thousands of visitors have already viewed the stamps which will continue to remain on display today before they are taken back by their respective owners.

Clark, New Envoy To Mexico Takes Oath

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—UP—J. Reuben Clark of Utah, newly appointed ambassador to Mexico, took his oath of office at the state department today, and then prepared to leave for his home in Salt Lake City. He will return here Nov. 7 and leave soon afterward for Mexico City.

The oath was administered by Percy Allen, appointment clerk of the department, in the presence of Herschel Johnson, head of the division of Mexican affairs. Clark has been here for about a week conferring with Secretary Stimson and other officials regarding the duties of his new office.

MAN QUIZZED IN DEATH OF TOT

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 18.—UP—A north Denver man whose name was withheld by authorities was questioned rigorously today by police in the investigation of the murder of Leona O'Loughlin, 10.

Bert Clark, captain of detectives, directed the quizzing of the man, who was said to have attempted to induce two young girls to enter his automobile near the O'Loughlin home the day Leona disappeared.

Officers said the suspect was 37 years old and that his home is in north Denver. Beyond that they withheld further information concerning the man.

While the suspect was being questioned, George H. Bostwick, deputy coroner, was performing an autopsy on the body of the child, which was recovered late Friday from the waters of Berkeley park lake.

Discovery of the body by William McLeod, a grocer, as he walked through the park ended an intensive search for the missing child, daughter of Leo O'Loughlin, city detective.

A preliminary examination of the body showed the child had not been mistreated. Two wounds were found on the head, and the arms were bruised in spots.

All evidence indicated the child was a murder victim, detectives said. They scouted theories of accidental death or suicide.

The father was in St. Joseph's hospital here today, seriously ill from the effects of eating tainted fish.
